

seminar on Russia-related disputes

With Russia looking increasingly towards the East, Russian corporates are doing more and more business with Chinese counterparts and Russian-related cases are becoming increasingly of interest to practitioners in Hong Kong.

Join us for this HK45 seminar which will explore key considerations when resolving Russian-related disputes. Our Russian experts – who bring both private practice and institutional perspective - will explore a range of topics including a case study of a 'typical' Russia-related dispute (from arbitration agreement to enforcement of the arbitral award), as well as the arbitrability of disputes and choice of forum considerations in Russia.

Date: 30 March 2017 (Thursday)
Time: 9:00 - 10:30 am
Venue: Hong Kong International Arbitration Centre
38/F, Two Exchange Square
8 Connaught Place
Central, Hong Kong
