

Bryan Ghows - Bio

Bryan is the founder of Via Law Corporation, a specialist law firm that focuses on intellectual property and information technology (“IP/IT”).

Bryan is active in litigious matters in the Singapore courts involving the protection of intellectual property and is developing an arbitral practice in IP/IT. Bryan also undertakes transactional and advisory work for clients in relation to IP/IT. Because of his experience as in-house counsel at IBM and Microsoft, Bryan represents both vendors and customers in negotiations involving technology transactions.

Prior to returning to Singapore and legal practice in 2010, Bryan worked in the United States for Microsoft and IBM. At Microsoft, Bryan was the Associate General Counsel and lead attorney for the Windows division and dealt with legal issues relating to Windows. At IBM, Bryan undertook numerous roles in the legal and finance departments.

Bryan was a litigation partner at Khattar Wong & Partners, a firm he joined out of law school. He helped establish their IP practice and was active in litigating numerous IP matters.

Admissions:

Advocate & Solicitor, Singapore
Attorney at Law, Washington State, USA
Solicitor, England & Wales

Qualifications:

Fellow, Singapore Institute of Arbitrators
Fellow, Chartered Institute of Arbitrators

Appointments

Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC) - IP arbitrator
The Law Society of Singapore: IT Committee: Chair (2011-2014)
Singapore Academy of Law: LawNet Management Committee - member